

Workshop Series: What Works in the Field

The National Conservation Planning Partnership (NCP) is excited to bring you its next installment of What Works in the Field, a peer-to-peer web conference series for conservation planning staff and partners.

You are invited to join in on this ongoing opportunity to communicate and share your innovative work with colleagues, nationally.

This Month:

JOIN OUR WORKSHOP

Online Workshop 4: Oregon's Strategic Approach to Conservation

In 2009, NRCS in Oregon began the process of changing their business model. Program dollars are now leveraged with partner funds and spent on focused investments, benefiting agriculture and our partnership workforce. Tune in as district conservationists share how they have tailored the approach to their local county resource concerns.

Join the conversation. Share your ideas and experiences with peers during this interactive discussion on the value of partnership and planning before contracting.

When:

Tuesday, October 24, 10:00-11:00 a.m. PST | 1:00-2:00 p.m. EST.

Download a calendar invite for this and future events.*

Where:

Adobe Connect - <http://nrcs.adobeconnect.com/ncpp/>

Audio will broadcast through Adobe Connect (VoIP)

Download recordings at - <http://bit.ly/2xWb0nE>

Panelists:

Nathan James, NRCS District Conservationist

Thomas Snyder, NRCS District Conservationist

